Graduated from Institute for Musicology and Institute of Film/TV at University of Copenhagen as cand.mag with a MA in music (1984) and a BA in film/tv (1992) and as an organist from Zealand's School of Church Music (2004). She was co-initiator and consultant of Danida-sponsored Agoro Cultural Centre in Ghana 1993-99. As a singer, pianist and ensemble leader she has performed professionally since 1995 and received her first commission in 2004; artists grants include Danish Arts Foundation, Danish Composers Society (DKF), DJBFA, Nordic Culture Point; composer's fees include Danish Arts Foundation, DKF, ensembles, districts, parishes, arts & educational institutions.

"An extraordinary composer of her very own right with a belief and knowledge in the human voice - and a sense of musical storytelling which is quite unique - using a broad network of musical roots condensed to her own musical style", says Bent-Erik Rasmussen, secretary general to the Franz Schubert Society of Denmark.

Hanne has her roots in classical as well as world music. As a composer she is inspired by European instrumental tradition, Nordic and British choir music, folk tones and Ethnic vocal traditions, by her work with West African polyrhythmic roots music, traditional drumming, dancing & storytelling, and by many years of absorption in symbology, mythology and mystery traditions. It was when she started composing for handed down scripts that she got hold of her unique way of expression.

Her works include music for sinfonietta and chamber music ensembles, works for solo voices/choir and mixed instrumental instrumental ensembles and for choir a capella; interactive works for choreographed voices and instrumental ensemble, incl. collaborate works in which she has set contemporary landscapes - rural as well as urban - to music. Her music has been performed in Denmark, Faroe Islands, Sweden, Iceland, England, Wales, Germany, Italy, Ghana a.o. It also includes a series of projects focussing on interaction and audience development - incl. in museums and other locations.
